

As one of the UK's leading Geotechnical, Piling & Foundation Engineering Contractors, Van Elle are committed to promoting sustainable development.

We will work closely with our clients to deliver our products and services safely, with due regard to the environment and on time. We will engage with communities and try to keep people who are affected by our work, whether users of facilities or residents near to our locations or construction projects, informed, as well as minimising the amount of disruption our activities may have on the community and the local environment.

We will continue to offer all our clients innovative solutions together with our existing services and encourage the adoption of environmentally sustainable practices for the future, through both practicable and affordable value engineering and design principles including off site manufacture.

It is our policy to maintain a safe and healthy workforce, by continuing to reduce the risk from our work activities and by providing a safer workplace.

Our Training and Development Policy sets out our commitment to continue to develop and train all our employees to equip them with the necessary skills & competence to perform their duties, to enable them to gain skills, knowledge and experience to build their roles and to meet the future needs of the business.

We aim to promote good practice to reduce the environmental impact of all our activities. This includes making more efficient use of resources such as minimising the use of paper and other office consumables, switching off equipment not in use, coordinated journey planning to reduce unnecessary travelling.

We will take into consideration environmental factors such as CO2 emissions when selecting vehicles for the company fleet. We will also plan work activities to reduce the amount of waste we produce, including the unnecessary loss of surplus materials, and ensuring that wherever possible re-use and recycling takes place.

We continue to engage and support local communities, charities and voluntary organisations.

We will ensure that this Policy and its commitments are communicated to employees, to our clients and other interested parties.

The Senior Leadership Team shall review this policy annually.
